Four Big Powers Recognize Findings of Committee in Solving Debt Payments by Germany, Resulting From War.

(By The Associated Press)
PARIS, April 26.—The replies of the four big allied powers to the reparations commission's communication regarding the Dawes report all accept the experts' findings wholly.

France alone raises the question of procedure, while Italy declares the report to be an "individual whole" which should be taken in its entirety, without condition or qualification.

The Belgian reply says: "The Belgian government is prepared to accept the experts' conclusions as a whole with a view to a practical and equitable settlement of the reparations problem."

The reply adds: "The indisputable competence of the members of the committee, the objectivity of their conclusions and the co-operation of America have given their unanimous conclusions a high moral importance which the Belgian government is pleased to recognize. It hopes the reparations commission will give careful consideration to the draft of the laws and decrees which it has asked the German government to submit to it and which are necessary for the complete execution of the experts' plan."

"The Belgian government further hopes that the reparations commission will lose no time in preparing the measures, the details of which were entrusted to it by the report, so that when this work has been carried out, the plan recommended may be brought into prompt operation by common agreement among the allied governments."

"The Belgian government is placing itself immediately in touch with these governments."

The reply is signed by Premier: Theunis and Foreign Minister: Hymans.

Another British reply says in part: "His Majesty's government, for their part, accept and will do everything in their power to give practical effect to the recommendations of the committee."

"The committee's recommendations should likewise adopt the conclusions of the committee with regard to matters falling within the jurisdiction of those governments."

The recommendations of the experts do not appear to involve any reduction in the total of the German reparations debt and the necessary modification of the necessary measures appear to be within the competence of an unanimous decision of the reparations commission and not to require the specific authority of the several governments represented on the commission under Article 234 of the Treaty of Versailles.

"If, however, there is any doubt on this point, his Majesty's government are prepared to grant such specific authority."

"Other matters arising on the experts' recommendations which appeared to be within the jurisdiction of the allied governments and fiscal authority of the German government over the whole of German territories."

"(B) Steps necessary to give binding effect to the new reparations plan, not covered by the existing provisions of the Treaty of Versailles."

"(C) The inclusion of all the financial liabilities of Germany under the peace treaty in a single annuity."

"On the first point, His Majesty's government are prepared to give full support to the experts' recommendations and to take in consultation with the other powers any steps which may be necessary to effect full restoration at the earliest possible date."

"As regards the second, the agreement of the German government having already been obtained, all that remains to be done is to give formal effect to it."

"His Majesty's government will be prepared to proceed to the next step, to be found in the most convenient and effective method of achieving this object."

"On the third point his Majesty's government accept the experts' recommendations and are prepared to take the part to which the reparations commission to propose a scheme to put this provision into execution. Should any other of the recommendations of the commission require endorsement by or action on the part of the allied governments, His Majesty's government will for their part be prepared to take whatever steps may be necessary to give effect to them."

The reply is signed by Sir William Tyrrell, assistant under-secretary of state, in the absence of the secretary of state, Mr. Lloyd George.

The Italian reply, after saying that the Italian government considers the experts' report of documents of highest value, continues:

"The contents of the two reports being considered as argument notes, which satisfy that the reparations commission adopted them in their entirety and is sure the commission will be able now rapidly to continue its work."

For its part, the Italian government is from this time disposed to adopt integrally the conclusions of the experts as well as the principles which inspired them. It believes that these principles constitute an equitable basis for the regulation of the question of reparations and questions connected therewith in conformity with the line of conduct constantly pursued by the Italian government."

The reply is signed by Premier Mussolini.

The Riverside Overall Factory on the corner of Floyd and Spruill streets was broken into last night and robbed of an undetermined quantity of goods. The robbers broke in one of the rear panels of the door gaining admittance in this way. People of the neighborhood reported this morning having seen a closed car parked in front of the factory at eleven o'clock last night but the circumstances were not then regarded as suspicious and so far as known nobody secured the number or noted the machine sufficiently carefully to give the police any valuable information. At the factory office this morning it was said that with the large stock of goods in the building it was impossible to say accurately what had been stolen. A quantity of shorts are known to have been stolen. Police Detectives Lewis and Campbell today took up their quest for the thieves.

MISS STOPA IS FOUND DEAD IN DETROIT HOTEL

Had Swallowed Poison Few Hours Before Police Learned She Was There

(By The Associated Press)
DETROIT, Mich., April 26.—A quick-acting and deadly poison, self-administered, according to the coroner, in a hotel room here late yesterday ended the career of Wanda Elaine Stopa, once a Polish immigrant girl, who became a brilliant lawyer, distinguished for her mental attainments and also a gay figure in the life of Greenwich Village in New York.

Miss Stopa died just a few hours before Chicago police, who were seeking her in connection with the slaying of Henry Manning, aged caretaker at the home of Y. Kenley Smith, wealthy advertising man, Thursday, had entered at a Detroit hotel. The woman, according to the police, in a jealous rage, went to the Smith residence for the purpose of killing him and his wife after he had refused to obtain a divorce and that Manning when he attempted to protect Mrs. Smith.

Mystery surrounded the death of Miss Stopa in Detroit. She registered at the hotel under the name of Glasgow. A guest at the hotel saw the woman in the morning room and thought he recognized her from newspaper photographs. He looked over her shoulder and saw she was writing a letter to Mrs. Inez Stopa, 1806 Augusta street, Chicago. He then notified Fred Fox, a Detroit assistant manager of the hotel. When the assistant manager went to the place where the woman had been sitting, she was gone, according to hotel attaches. According to the coroner the letter was addressed to Miss Stopa's effects when he was called later.

Shortly after the hotel was told that Miss Stopa was there, a call came from the room occupied by the woman who registered as Glasgow, saying she was ill. A doctor was called, but no response, opened the door just in time to see the woman fall backward on the bed. She died in a few minutes. On the dresser was a bottle of pills and a note which read: "The coroner's office was notified and the body was taken to an undertaking establishment. The woman was fully clothed, expensively but plainly. No report of the suicide was made to the police, according to officers."

Three hours later police were notified by Chicago officers that Miss Stopa had been seen at a hotel in Detroit. They were told to look for her also under the name of Glasgow. After looking over the hotel register they discovered the woman had committed suicide. At the undertaking establishment police detectives identified the woman as Miss Stopa.

5 EXCURSION STEAMERS AND OTHERS BURN

Fire Sweeps Row of Ships at Loss of Over a Million.

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, April 26.—Five woolen excursion steamboats and several smaller craft were burned early today at their winter berth in the Hudson River off 157th street. The loss was over $1,000,000.

The fire, caused by a gasoline explosion on a small barge, spread to the steamers A. M. Church, Highland, Nassau, Barton and Grand Republic. The last named was a sister ship of the General Slocum which was burned in the East River 20 years ago with loss of 1,000 lives.

Thirty employees aboard the Grand Republic barely escaped, many being forced to leap into the water. Two men were burned, one seriously. The steamers carried thousands of excursionists up the Hudson in summer.

(Special to The Bee) SOUTH BOSTON, Va., April 26.—The United Daughters of the Confederacy of the Third District of the Virginia Division, held the business session of the convention in the main auditorium of the Presbyterian church yesterday. Mrs. C. V. Clarke of South Boston, president of Halifax county chapter, called the meeting to order at 9:30 o'clock. Rev. C. W. McGowan, pastor of the Presbyterian church, offered the invocation, after which Mrs. Harry Wooding, chairman of the Third Division of Danville, was introduced to the delegates by Mrs. Clarke. Mrs. Charles Guthrie of Charlotte Court House, was appointed secretary of the convention from the chair.

Mrs. Edwin Goffigan of Cape Charles, president of Virginia Division was then introduced by Mrs. Wooding. She briefly discussed the general relief fund, which is used in taking care of the widows of the Confederate Veterans. She pointed out that in a short while all of these will have passed away, and that it is the duty of the local chapters to make these last days as comfortable and as pleasant for them as possible. In this connection she urged the members to put forth a special effort to swell the exchange fund in order to provide enough funds to take care of these venerable widows in such a way as would serve to emanate to the credit of the organization.

Mrs. Goffigan also referred to the success of the Junior Chapter in order to keep the organization functioning as it should. The juniors she said, will be the chapters of tomorrow, and the success that will be attained and the scope of the field covered by the organization in a large measure will depend on the help and sponsoring the junior chapters.

Mrs. Wooding then introduced Mrs. M. E. Huddleston, of Clifton Forge, first vice-president of the Virginia Division. Mrs. Huddleston spoke in the interest of the Lee Mausoleum at Lexington. The United Daughters of the Confederacy are now maintaining a custodian there for the purpose of showing visitors about the history of the South and of General Robert E. Lee. Before the custodian was placed at the mausoleum, a number of distinguished visitors to this shrine had to return without having entered the chapel or learned anything about the history of the southland. In the months of June, July and August, 1932, 7,500 people visited the mausoleum, and every state in the union with the exception of Alaska and Hawaii, had a number of distinguished foreign visitors. The funds to defray the expenses of the custodian come from the local chapters of the Virginia Division, and Huddleston urged the members to be as generous as possible in their contributions.

Mrs. B. R. Roberts, of Chase City, director for world war records was the next speaker on the program. She discussed the necessity of keeping the records clear, and that it was not enough to know that a large number of the sons of the South had fought in that gigantic struggle, but that statistics must be had that would show who were entitled to special recognition for their bravery and their part in the world war. The crosses of service are made from bronze, they bear the insignia of service and have a gold knot worked on the ribbon. Mrs. A. C. Ford of Clifton Forge, State chairman of education, told the delegates in a very interesting way about the help that had been accorded worthy girls in their attempt to secure an education. The funds for this purpose were limited, she said, and sixteen girls who appeared for aid in order that they might attend the State Normal school had to be turned away, also a number of other girls who asked for aid in similar way. In her opinion, one of the biggest jobs that confront the organization is to secure funds with which worth girls may be given scholarships in some good school, especially when they are

FRES. COOLIDGE TO VETO BONUS IT IS BELIEVED

Not Expected to Sign It, Because of Economy Policy.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, April 26.—A likelihood that President Coolidge will veto the bonus bill when it is submitted to him by Congress, probably within a week, is seen by a number of White House callers in his endorsement yesterday of views expressed by Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho. During an address in the Senate Tuesday in opposition to the measure.

The president made it clear that this agreement with the Idaho Senators arguments was not connected with the paid up insurance plan which formed the basis of Mr. Borah's criticism, or with any other particular bill, but that he regarded the address as being in line generally with his own frequently expressed opinion as to the desirability of economy in government expenditures. His visitors, however, interpreted his remarks as an indication that he also agreed with the senators stand against the bonus measure.

Senate and House conferees will meet Monday to seek adjustment of differences between the two chambers over certain provisions. Many of the conferees think one day will be sufficient to get together on the measure, and leaders generally have declared that, even if the president should veto the bill, it can be re-enacted easily with the required two-thirds majority.

How Money For Schools Would Be Expended

This will leave us a balance of $19,000, which will be used for furnishings, repairs, painting and giving additional equipment to our present buildings and for improvement of school grounds of our city as above recommended.

The foregoing report was presented by T. S. Williamson, A. C. Conway, H. G. Phillips and Dr. I. C. Harrison, who have spent several weeks past in making out the best method of spending the money. The estimates given are not those of builders or architects but are roughly given on the basis of $5,000 per room.

UNMARKED GRAVE OF CIVIL WAR WRECK VICTIMS FOUND

(Special to The Bee.) SOUTH BOSTON, Va., April 26.—An interesting event connected with Civil War days was brought out at the U. D. C. meeting here. On April 3, 1865, one of the last trains leaving Richmond after the evacuation was wrecked on the Southern Railway about three miles east of South Boston. The soldiers were riding in box and cattle cars and the wreck was caused by the trucks slipping under one of the cars. A number of wounded soldiers from Georgia who had been in a hospital at Richmond were in this car and six of them were killed outright, their bodies being horribly mangled. The bodies were placed on a car door and carried a short distance from the railroad and all of them were buried in one grave. This had to be done hurriedly as the Yankees were in close pursuit. The train on which Jefferson Davis was riding was following close behind the one that was wrecked, and was delayed for a short while on account of the wreck. The story was confirmed by Dr. W. H. Snyder, of Blackstone, Va., who was Captain of Company F, 1st Regiment, Virginia Reserves, and who attended the convention. He came to South Boston a few months ago, and in company with U. S. Weatherford, who died recently, located the grave, which is on the farm of Chas. Glynn, Captain Snyder and Mr. Weatherford helped to bury the men. Mrs. Charles Hutchinson, of Crewe, Virginia, who was a delegate to the convention, says that her husband's father, also assisted with the burial. The United Daughters of the Confederacy will take steps to have the grave marked as containing the bodies of the unknown soldiers of the Civil War.

Dr. W. H. Snyder mentioned in the foregoing dispatch, is a brother of Dr. T. L. Snyder, well-known Danville dentist, who is expecting him to spend the week-end here. Dr. Snyder will remember hearing his brother speak of the event outlined above. Dr. Snyder added that his brother assisted in the burial of the Civil War victims, and for that reason was well enabled to identify the grave after the passage of many years.

Mr. Snyder has some extended reminiscences which he has collected in the form of a volume, and which is soon to be published under the title of "The Old Guard."

War Is Problem Now Bothering the Churchmen

By OWEN L. SCOTT. (Copyright, 1934, by The Bee.) CHICAGO, April 24.—War—whether it should be condoned under some conditions or condemned no matter what the circumstances—is a problem now bothering churchmen of the country, much as the controversy between the fundamentalists and modernists did earlier in the year.

Three great denominations, Methodist-Episcopal, Presbyterian and Baptist, will wrestle with the question during the next month at their national conferences. Smaller groups already have come to grips—their activities focused in Chicago—and so far the pacifists each time have emerged as the losers and the victors.

They think that the church should wage a war on war; that it should never again bless any military conflict or call it holy; that all the religious forces of the country should drive against the forces that makes for international disturbances until peace is assured for all time.

The whole controversy between the anti-militarists and their equally staunch opponents within the church, who maintain that they should reserve judgment on war, using the influence of religion where it can best serve its purpose, recently burst into the open. It had smoldered along until thirty-eight Northwestern University students pledged themselves never to take up arms for their country, and then found themselves the object of considerable newspaper attention. This action, followed by a meeting of the Evanston Epworth League addressed by a draft evader, at which the flag was said to have been hissed, accentuated the issue.

Then came meetings of local clergy and actions that assure consideration of the whole problem of war and peace by the national church assemblies.

Further to emphasize the movement, over five hundred Methodist students from every State in the Union, representing 10,000 students and 112 colleges and universities have just voted in a meeting at Louisville actively to oppose any war. Seventy-nine of the students declared their willingness to face a firing squad rather than face a draft sentence.

The Methodists commenced their national meeting May 1, at Springfield, Mass., when they face the new issue, to be followed by assemblies of the Presbyterians and Baptists. Prominent local members of the clergy, active in the matter of churches of Christ in America, representing 21 denominations. It is rapidly taking over the arena previously held by religious gladiators involved in verbal conflict over the question of the Virginia Birth of Christ.

J. P. MORGAN DISCUSSES REPARATION PROBLEM

PARIS, April 25.—Louis Barthou, Sir John Bradbury and the other heads of the Allied missions to the Reparation Commission, discussed the situation at length with J. P. Morgan Dillard then an attorney of Rocky Mount and a son of Judge Peter H. Dillard of the 30th district which embraces Bedford and Franklin counties. Several years ago when a convention was held at Martinsville Mr. Dillard then an aspirant was defeated. Upon the conclusion of the convention he promised his support to the nominee but stated at the time that he would be heard from in the future.

DALTON DILLARD IS ASKED TO RUN; WILL DECIDE IN FEW DAYS

Another development in Fifth Congressional District politics was revealed today when it became known that a group of citizens last evening called on Hon. H. Dalton Dillard of Franklin county and presented him with a largely signed petition asking that he enter the Congressional race. Mr. Dillard received the delegation at his home in Rocky Mount, and after reading the petition and hearing further verbal solicitation said that he would take the matter under consideration and announce his decision within the next few days. Ever since a "free-for-all" became evidence in the Congressional matter Mr. Dalton has been spoken of as a possible contender. He is an attorney of Rocky Mount and a son of Judge Peter H. Dillard of the 30th district which embraces Bedford and Franklin counties. Several years ago when a convention was held at Martinsville Mr. Dillard then an aspirant was defeated. Upon the conclusion of the convention he promised his support to the nominee but stated at the time that he would be heard from in the future.

Burton Hotel Wins 100 Per Cent Score In State's Test

An unusual honor has been accorded the Burton Hotel in the winning of a 100 per cent. record, following the recent inspection of the houses of the undertaker by the State Food and Dairy Division of the State Board of Health. H. M. Henkel has received an engraved commission notifying him of the result of the exhaustive inspection made on April 15th by Inspectors A. K. Arthur and W. H. Yiffis. It is understood that last year only one hotel in the State of Virginia received a 100 per cent. record, this being the Jefferson at Richmond.

Although the name of the examining body would indicate that the test is applied strictly to food served in the dining room, such is not actually the case. The scoring takes into consideration everything in connection with the operation of a hotel. Twenty-five points are reserved for the kitchen and the remaining 75 points which can be scored pertain to win-ning the test. The test is not actually a hotel beds, general cleanliness of the establishment, the plumbing, the linen used in the hotel and other considerations. Failure to measure up to standards in any one particular would rob the hotel of its 100 per cent. achievement. The visit by the inspectors was made without previous notice to the hotel since give warning would destroy the usefulness of these annual tests.

Mr. Henkel in 1917 was given a 100 per cent. rating, while he was manager of a hotel at Big Stone Gap.

Malaria At Panama.

Nearly every good think packs with it something had in an offset. In fact, biologists recognize this anti-dote tendency as being a part of natural law. In Panama they are licensed employees to squat on government property. When the canal was being dug they cleared the jungle away for miles back. The authorities want it kept back, and as a means to use it as farms, rent free. In this way they keep the jungle away from the canal, they provide occupation for men brought from the West Indies to dig an offset. The West Indies are out of work, and they create a new source of food supply for a district where not enough food is grown; all highly desirable achievements.

But placing men on farms away from health centers is making it difficult to hold the low malaria rate which has made the Canal Zone famous. These uncontrolled farmers contract malaria, are not completely cured, become chronic malaria carriers, and infect mosquitoes, that in turn infect employees of the canal.

Another illustration: The Panamanian government is spending considerable money in road building. People get into their automobiles and ride out into the country at night in order to cool off. When they get away from the well-sanitized Canal Zone they are apt to be bitten by mosquitoes and to be infected with malaria.

Another illustration: To encourage the growing of foodstuffs the government gives the use of ground around habitations to employees for vegetable gardens. When the employees go home in the afternoon after work hours they work in their gardens. They are liable to continue working in the garden until night settles down, or even to work at night on warm moonlight nights. When at work in the garden at night or in the twilight they are quite liable to be bitten by mosquitoes infected with malaria.

It is greatly to the credit of Col. Fisher and his assistants that they are able to keep down the malaria rate of the employees of the Zone and of the residents of Panama and Colon, who are also in a measure under his protection, in spite of the difficulties of the kind noted.

DRAKES BRANCH, April 25.—(Grapevine Wireless.) Indeed, the busy world is spinning round; there is nothing permanent but change. What may be a going concern of a modern machine today is likely to be a junkheap tomorrow. Speaking of the resourcefulness and "carry the message to William" type of American salesman, Garcia Buttermoth, president of the John Deere Company, tells this one: "A salesman, being his prospect sitting disconsolately looking out of the window, asked him:

"What's the matter today?" "I promised my wife a Pomeranian, and the best price I can get on one is $150, and it's too much," was the reply.

"You're right, it's too much," quickly responded the salesman. "I can sell you one for $75."

"Fine," said the prospect, beaming; "when can you make delivery?" "Just a minute," said the salesman, who rushed out and down to a public telephone booth. Getting his partner on the phone, he said:

"Say, listen, I've just sold a what-here a Pomeranian for $75. Why-hell is a Pomeranian?"

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

SYNOPSIS. Dolly, a governess, is in love with her poor suitor, Robert Durham. When Nigel Bretherton, who has money, falls in love with her, Dolly leaves up Robert and marries Nigel. His marriage proves an unhappy one.

When war is declared, Nigel is glad to enlist. He leaves Dolly in the care of his friend, Mary Furnival. Mary comes to live in Dolly's flat.

When Nigel's older brother, David, calls to see Nigel's widow, Mary is ashamed to tell him of Dolly's marriage. David mistakes Mary for his brother's wife and asks her to come to live at Red Grange with him and his aunt.

News comes to Mary of the sinking of the boat on which David knew her husband left England. A young man, Mary's distress, offers to go for news of the ship's passengers.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY. She told him sobbingly: "Mrs. Nigel Bretherton," then, remembering, hastily corrected herself. "I mean, Mrs. Robert Durham. Oh, she cannot, cannot be so cruel. My brother's wife, she nearly always exaggerated," he said quickly, with kind hopefulness. "And the Multane was not a very big steamer. She carried only a few passengers. I know. My brother came home from the Argentine on her last month. They may all be saved. You must hope for the best."

"Your mistress is wet through," he said. "See that she changes her clothes, and give her something hot to drink."

Mary had already gone on into the flat. She felt as if this last blow was more than she could bear; it seemed to crush her to the ground. She was sitting in dumb misery in the cosy sitting-room when the small maid came in hurriedly with a steaming cup of cocoa.

"The gentleman said you were to drink this, and that he'd be back as soon as he could. And your clothes so wet!"

She coaxed Mary to change, and stood over her while she drank the cocoa.

"I don't suppose it's any of it," she said, maintaining stoutly. "You can't believe a word of what they papers say."

Mary had to smile in spite of her wretchedness. "It's very true," she said. "Something tells me it's only too true."

Chapter XVII. No Hope. It seemed an eternity till a ring at the bell broke the silence. Mary herself went to the door. One glance told her the face of the man who stood there in the wet night told her that there was but little to hope for. She gave a little gasp, and leaned against the door with a feeling of sick gladness.

"It's—it's true?" she asked faintly.

He answered reluctantly that he was afraid so. Of course, as he said, it was not complete, but it was known that many of the passengers were drowned.

He would not come in when Mary asked him to, but he said he would be sure to let her know if he heard anything further that night.

DANVILLE BATTLES THE PATRIOTS TO A TWELVE RUN DRAW IN SLUGFEST

(Special to The Bee)

GREENSBORO, N. C., April 26.—Brilliant ninth inning rallies which staved off defeat for each team left the Tobaccoists and Patriots standing at a 12-12 tie when the game was called at the end of the ninth on account of darkness. Wilson, Belk and Resco drove out home runs in the ninth, which was a slugfest from beginning to end. After Danville had forged ahead by making four runs in the ninth, putting her two to the good, sending home scoring one run, and Crews doubling runner to third, Irby's sacrifice fly to center scored the tying run. The next batsman popped out and the game was called.

Seven pitchers were used in the slugfest which lasted three hours, lacking but three minutes. Herb Murphy, crafty manager for the Virginians, used four hurlers in an effort to stem the tide while, but none seemed effective in three, but none seemed effective in three and both teams continued the slugfest until the ninth when the game was called.

Lefty Wilson's home run drive came in the second inning. Fritz Belk slammed Stripp on base. Fritz Belk slammed Stripp on base in the ninth with two on, the ball soaring over center field and home. Resco rolled out, but George Resco parked the pill over the right field wall.

Trefry beat out a slow one to short in the first and Belk singled to right. Regan walked. Resco rolled to second and Trefry scored. Regan walked and Resco scored. Trefry walked and Resco scored. Trefry walked and Resco scored.

Then second inning fireworks. Stripp singled and Inman scored. Sherrill went in with the count three and one on Cochlin and walked. Wilson Purified the decks with a home run. Dean and Snyder; Vance and Deberry. Although Greensboro received one more hit than Danville, The Tobaccoists hit the old apple the hardest, garnering three home runs, a triple and a two-bagger.

Lefty Wilson, Fritz Belk and George Resco got home runs and as a result are owners of a box of cigars each at the expense of John Resco, who puts out a box of smokes for every homer. Wilson and Belk brought in two runners ahead of them while Resco's clout came with none on.

And just look how Eddie Regan keeps slugging the ball. He tried hard enough to follow in the tracks of Wilson, Belk and Resco, but the "best" he could do was a triple and a double. That boy usually makes triples and doubles out of ordinary singles by using his legs, so to speak. Very good, Eddie keep it up.

Dave Harris headed the list of Greensboro sluggers with four safeties. Trefry had a 500 percentage for the day, proving he is just the high class player he was rated to be. His speed on the bases is also a subject of much comment. Yesterday he swiped one of the only two cushions stolen.

Well, if they just can win today we will have a 500 percentage anyway. It can't be said they are on the bottom of the ladder now, having lost only one game to Raleigh's and Winston's two.

It certainly was a day of slugging in the Piedmont circuit. A total of 68 runs were made, ordinarily a plenty of tallies to win a whole week of ball games instead of two. And just look at the hits—98 of 'em. That's swelling the batting averages.

Frank Chance says he expects Willie Kamm of the White Sox to hit 20 points better than last season. If he does, Kamm will vie with Joe Dugan as the most valuable third baseman in the Johnsonian organization.

Manager Stanley Harris of the Washington club says that Walter Johnson will seldom be used as reliever. Harris figures that gives three to four days' rest Johnson should have one of the best years of his career.

DOUBLE STEAL FEATURE OF RED-PIRATE GAME PITTSBURGH, April 25.—After obtaining a lead of one run, Pittsburgh's defense collapsed and Cincinnati made it two straight from the Pirates by winning today's game 10 to 4. A double steal of the home plate and second by Traynor and Baker, respectively, featured the game. Hargrave and Grimm knocked home runs, each scoring a run ahead of him.

Homers by Grimm, Pittsburgh, and Hargrave of Cincinnati, kept the Pirates battling until the eighth when the Pirates retreated before the rapid clouting of the Reds, who made seven runs in the last two innings, any way score 4, jumping into first place in the league standings.

(By The Associated Press.) PINEHURST, N. C., April 25.—Breaking 90 out of 100 targets, T. S. Southgate of Durham, N. C., this afternoon won the North Carolina trapshoot. One of the feature events of the annual program of the North Carolina Trapshooting Association here.

THE D. M. I. SLUGGERS DEFEAT RANDOLPH-MACON ACADEMY The baseball team of the Danville Military Institute yesterday defeated the Randolph-Macon Academy, nine on the grounds of the latter, by a score of 16 to 9 on the merits of superior batting, pitching and fielding.

The D. M. I. batsmen garnered a total of sixteen hits for something like thirty total bases. Fowler, who started the hurling for the cadets, was not in effective form and was relieved in the second inning by Bern, steln, who held the Bedford boys in check while his team-mates were fattening out the offerings of their opposing pitcher. Catcher Wilkinson wielded the big club, hitting two home runs to his credit, while Allen, of the cadet team also had a circuit smut.

The D. M. I. team, which has made a fine record this season, will go to Chatham to play the Chatham Training School team, and a good game is expected.

Records Expected to Fall Today in Relay Carnival

(By The Associated Press.) DES MOINES, April 25.—With world, American, intercollegiate record holders entered, records are expected to fall today in the finals of the Drake relay carnival, provided weather conditions are favorable and yesterday's rain soaked track dries.

Charles Paddock, who yesterday ran the 400 yards dash in 59.6 seconds, his own world's record, plans to attempt to better the performance today and also to try for a record for the 325 yard sprint, the present world's mark for which is 12.5 seconds.

The blonde Californian was disappointed because he lost the sun in his exhibition century yesterday and desires to meet today the same trio he defeated, giving them a handicap of four instead of two yards.

The interesting relay in today's program are the mile mile one, two and four mile sprints.

Trefry had a 500 percentage for the day, proving he is just the high class player he was rated to be. His speed on the bases is also a subject of much comment. Yesterday he swiped one of the only two cushions stolen.

Well, if they just can win today we will have a 500 percentage anyway. It can't be said they are on the bottom of the ladder now, having lost only one game to Raleigh's and Winston's two.

It certainly was a day of slugging in the Piedmont circuit. A total of 68 runs were made, ordinarily a plenty of tallies to win a whole week of ball games instead of two. And just look at the hits—98 of 'em. That's swelling the batting averages.

Frank Chance says he expects Willie Kamm of the White Sox to hit 20 points better than last season. If he does, Kamm will vie with Joe Dugan as the most valuable third baseman in the Johnsonian organization.

Manager Stanley Harris of the Washington club says that Walter Johnson will seldom be used as reliever. Harris figures that gives three to four days' rest Johnson should have one of the best years of his career.

Friends Will Think You Ignorant

Happiness? What a common word! How plebeian! How ordinary! If you appear happy the wise folks take it for just blarney. And yet, the philosophers tell us it is the ultimate aim of all life. People seek it in different ways. And most forget what they are after.

"Anticipation is the better part of realization," or something like that. Too few people anticipate happiness. They wait to wait until it arrives before they try to enjoy it. And when it does arrive they are too busy waiting for some future happiness.

The supply of happiness is inexhaustible, but very little is used. And then, Tom Sims, if you don't quit waiting to work spring mornings your stuff will be so cheerful people will think it is rotten.

ment departments and bureaus is to provide for the hiring of "experts." "Experts," of course, might reasonably be expected to be able to pass civil service examinations in the branches in which they are expert. But Congress usually specifies that "experts" may be appointed outside the civil service lists.

Now comes William Dudley Foulke, president of the National Civil Service Reform League, charging that this exemption is provided for political rather than practical or scientific purposes.

The positions ostensibly provided for "experts," Foulke charges, are used to accommodate political appointments.

"In the Veterans' Bureau alone," he says, "hundreds of political appointments were made under the title of 'special agent'."

There will show, Foulke contends, that the extent of graft and maladministration in government bureaus, as disclosed by investigations, follows closely the extent to which these "political experts" are included in the personnel.

New York's Traffic Problem

By ISRAEL KLEIN

NEW YORK, April 26.—Let us pause for the present in our harangue against the traffic situation of Danville and shed a tear for New York.

New York, most populated city in the United States, faces this condition:

1.—The main part of this city is a small island, 12 1/2 miles long and 2 1/2 miles at its widest point. Yet this small area of about 26 square miles has a population of 2,844,000!

2.—Thousands of travelers come and go daily, centering their business and pleasure on this island.

3.—Only 15 thoroughfares go the greater part of the island's length.

4.—The island of Manhattan has been so thoroughly developed, and its property values have soared so high, that widening of streets would make room for heavier traffic would cost millions upon millions of dollars.

5.—More Room Needed. Yet, according to Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, New York has reached the end of traffic regulation.

"There is only one thing left," says Enright. "We have got to have more street space, and the constant increasing number of vehicles, traffic congestion is bound to go from bad to worse, and unless immediate relief is afforded, business will suffer, more people will be killed and injured and a situation most detrimental to the city will be precipitated."

This situation has become increasingly difficult despite the fact that New York has done its utmost to get its people underground. At some points in the city, there are as many as five layers of traffic, three underground and one above, beside the surface traffic.

More subways and vehicular tunnels are being planned. Yet that is hardly considered significant in comparison with the larger plans before the New York authorities for the relief of traffic.

Immense Cost. The main idea is to get New York's workers out of Manhattan as conveniently as possible to their homes in the other four boroughs and farther outlying suburbs. For this, express auto streets above the surface have been suggested—one especially along the Hudson River. Another idea is to widen existing main thoroughfares by cutting into the buildings alongside and forming arcades for pedestrians.

Whatever the plan adopted, however, millions upon millions will have to be spent to relieve New York of

However, Comma

By Maurice Henle

NEW YORK, April 26.—Elliott H. Paul, one of America's most vivid novelists, must think that to write about life without an abundance of sex would be as drab as corned-beef without cabbage, or even ham without eggs. Certainly linked.

First he wrote "Indelible," then "Impromptu" and now "Imperturbable" (Knopf). One finds it difficult to say which, "Impromptu" or "Imperturbable" paints sex in its most hideous aspects.

It was a little difficult to discover where Paul conceived the name "Imperturbable," until we learned that he took it from one of Walt Whitman's poems. The word is supposed to indicate that glorious state of mind a man reaches after he has knocked about this old earth so much that self-reliance, self-assurance and self-confidence form a part of his very being.

His chief character is one of the strongest in any recently written novel. Lester Davis is a youth of disturbed mind, who can't see life as others do, who isn't satisfied just to stay in one place and "settle down." He must be going, and he must always be ready to move on to the next place when he tires of the present one.

This uneasy feeling takes him from Boston to the far-west, back to the middle-west, again to the far-west, and finally back home. In his roving he meets raw life, at least it would be raw enough for the average mortal.

One meets these wanderlust-struck youths more in New York than in any other city in the world, with the exception of Paris. Once we talked with a waiter in one of the mid-street restaurants. He came here from Evansville, Ind., he said, with the firm purpose of becoming a great artist. He discovered it was rather difficult to sell paintings, even if they had been good ones, and that he had been unable to get a job. He took the first thing that offered itself—temporarily, of course.

If you would know more of Pierre Loti, the late French novelist, you must read a volume recently compiled by his son, Samuel Viaud. "Pierre Loti" (Doubleday, Page) is really a compilation of notes made by the novelist from time to time. Chiefly it is confined to notes and letters of his youth, when disappointment after disappointment crowded his life. The name Pierre Loti really is a pen name assumed by Louis Julien Viud. Most of his impressions (and often he wrote mere impressionist pictures with no thread of narrative) were gleaned from extensive trips he took as a member of the French naval mission. He entered the service in 1867 and left it a lieutenant 31 years later.

The most charming paragraphs deal with his courtship: "Even after all the impossible difficulties were overcome, have you thought what being my wife would mean? To come alone, as a fugitive, to a distant country where no one understands your language... go unveiled, like a 'foreign' woman; share my poverty... and be all alone during the years when I am far away, sailing the seas...."

"If you can accept all this, my beloved, if you love me so much that you will endure all, if you want to see... then come, I adore you and I await you...."

Buick Value—The Measure of Automobile Values

People now-a-days measure automobile values on the basis of Buick value. How often you hear such remarks as: "It's not nearly as good as Buick". People make these remarks both consciously and unconsciously. Consciously, because they actually know Buick value either from their own experience or that of their friends; unconsciously, because for twenty years Buick has been the accepted standard of the industry. Good reasons, both, why you should own a Buick.

HUNT'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By HARRY B. HUNT

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Feminine curiosity went unwarded Easter morning when many hundreds of women gathered about the entrance to the First Congregational Church, all eyes turned to view Mrs. Coolidge's Easter gown.

Before the hour for the services, 17 traffic cops, plus one captain and two lieutenants, were required to keep back the crowd. Then, amid a fluttering of expectant sighs and a crowding in on the police lines, the glittering White House car drew near, pulled up to the curb, stopped.

A slender, top-hatted man got out. It was the president, but nobody noticed him.

Then came Mrs. Coolidge. She alighted, turned about and stood waiting for a second. Everybody got a good look at her, but not at what they came to see.

"Well, did you ever!" breathed one large lady, voicing the disappointment of the crowd. "She's got on her winter coat!"

And so she had.

NEW YORKERS needn't put on metropolitan airs any more when they come to Washington to testify in graft investigations and see the whole show in a big way.

New York swelled up with pride a week ago when a 90-foot steel truss, weighing 32 tons, was installed in a new picture theater being built at Broadway and 53rd street.

"The biggest piece of steel ever put into a building in the United States," the big city boasted.

Washington, however, elbows this record into second place with the installation of a 100-foot girder, weighing 42 tons, in the new Cosmopolitan Theater being built across from Kosciusko Square. And, for the present, at least, New York will please take a back seat when it comes to the capital.

One of the neatest ways of getting around civil service requirements in legislating for employees in government is to make them voluntary.

Study of Jesus of Nazareth Taken Up

"Jesus of Nazareth fulfilled every prediction of the ancient prophets and met every specification of the requirements of the Bible concerning the Messiah and in him was revealed every promise regarding the Anointed One," declared Evangelist Westbrook last night in his lecture, "Was Jesus of Nazareth the True Messiah?"

He based his study on the prophecy of Daniel, chapter nine, verses twenty-four to twenty-seven, and said in part: "This wonderful time prophecy dates from the time the command was given to restore Jerusalem after the captivity of Israel in Babylon, and locates the very year when the Messiah would appear and the work he would do. The period of time mentioned began in the year 457 B. C. and ended A. D. 27 at which time Jesus was baptized by John and anointed with the Holy Ghost. His public ministry and said the time is fulfilled, and later declared to the woman at the well that he was the Messiah. Those who witnessed his work and partook of his blessings affirmed that he was the Messiah and the one of Moses and the prophets did write. Not only did the prophecy locate the time when he would appear but also stated the time he would be allowed to perform his work and gave the year when he would be rejected and slain. When he died the veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom and the sacrifices in the temple in Jerusalem ceased.

"According to the prophecy there were several definite things which the Messiah would do and all these were accomplished by Jesus. First, he was to appear at a definite time and be anointed or baptized by the Holy Ghost, this he did. Second, he was to make an end of sin which he did by blotting them out. Acts 3:19. Third, make reconciliation for iniquity which he did by his death. Romans 5:10. Fourth, bring in everlasting righteousness which he did through his shed blood. Romans 2:26. Fifth, to cause the sacrifice and oblation to cease which he did when he died on the cross. Matt. 27:50-51. Sixth, to confirm the covenant with many which he did in his acts of mercy in forgiving the sinner, healing the sick, casting out devils and raising the dead.

"As a result of rejecting him and his ministry the prophecy foretold the destruction of the city and the temple which came to pass in A. D. 70. At that time all the records were destroyed in the temple and is Christ were not the true Messiah no one now could establish his claim for the genealogies are lost forever.

"To reject Jesus as the true Messiah of God means the loss of everlasting life for Jesus said, 'Except ye believe that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.' John 8:24. The subject announced for tonight is, 'What Would Jesus Preach About Were He in Danville Tonight?'

MRS. WOMACK LAID AT REST AT OLD HOME

The funeral services of Mrs. Charles A. Womack, whose death has been recorded, took place at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from her late residence about nine miles from Chatham, Va., and were attended by a large outpouring of the people from miles around, particularly of the older residents of that section of Pittsylvania county. The Rev. Mr. Gill of the Methodist church was assisted in the services by the Rev. T. J. Faulkner, of the Episcopal church at Chatham, and by the Rev. William B. Jett, pastor of the Danville Methodist church. The funeral hymns which were favorites of the deceased were sung, these supplementing the familiar Methodist funeral and committal services.

At the conclusion of the services the body was committed to the earth, the interment being in the family burial-ground near the home. An unusually large number of friends had sent floral expressions of their sorrow and of their sympathy with those bereaved.

Pall-bearers: Younger Lampkin, P. S. Motley, Edmund Fitzgerald, Patton Cole, Walter Coles, Jr., Dr. T. Carter, Hon. N. E. Clement and R. C. Thompson.

The flowers were carried by M. Younger, Wiley Younger, J. H. Hargrave, J. P. Davis, Miss Martha Andrews, Walter Ware, J. S. Jones, R. W. Carter, George Womack, J. J. Whitehead, Joseph Burch, George Coates, George A. Carter, S. S. Gregory, and N. O. Munday.

Mrs. Womack was 77 years old and her husband who survives is 81 years ago.

WHEN you buy a car in the "thousand-dollar" class, here are some things you should know.

We made a canvass of men who bought rival cars in this class. And we found that 96 in each 100 bought without knowing these facts.

So, for your sake and our sake, we want to present them to you.

This supreme quality means lower operating cost. Owners of fleets of cars in this class made audited records to prove this.

They compared 329 cars, running up to 25,000 miles each. And they found that the Studebaker Light-Six cost 11.4% less to operate than the average of its rivals. This includes depreciation. The saving was nearly one cent per mile.

Toe Education Urged to Save Feet from Becoming Hoofs

Her Feet Are Her Fortune. See Anson, Youthful Dancer, Did Not Need the Chiropractor to Tell Her to Keep Her Feet in Good Physical Condition. Her Feet Are So Well Educated She Can Write a Letter with Them.

Americans Fast Becoming Footless, Due to Laziness and High Heels, Warn Specialists Assembled to Fight 'Pedal Ailments'

Bessie Cooper's Pedometer in Chicago, Shows That the Average Housewife's 14 Miles of Daily Walking Keeps Her Toes Well-Developed.

TWO questions that came out of the convention of the National Association of Chiropractors recently to dig lines of worry in the faces of all patriotic Americans, are these: Is it true—actually—that women of the United States have exchanged places with the women of China, evidenced by the crippled state of American feet as compared with the normal ones of Oriental femininity?

And is it true that American people, men as well as women, fast are becoming a footless race, doomed to mere pags eventually through their own lack of foresight?

The illustrious assemblage of experts on feet and footwear answered "Yes" to both questions. At least it declared that there is grave danger of just such an eventuality if the nation does not change its notions of shoes and particularly of methods of locomotion.

To counteract the pernicious influence of the French foot fashions the association urged toe-education, some of them going so far as to say that lawmakers should help the thing along by banning shoes that do not come in the common sense class. At the same time word came from Wellesley, one of America's foremost women's colleges, saying that a course in toe-education was already planned there. At Wellesley, henceforth, the maidens will be taught that feet are for footing, and not merely magnets to draw the masculine eye.

Feet, according to the opinion of Dr. W. V. Ramsburg of Minneapolis, president of the Chiropractors' Association, were made to walk on. "Walking provides the exercise that keeps them in health and development. BUT, the chiropractor went on, the American people—at least those who live in cities and big towns—do not walk!

Now, Nature, it is pointed out, is a jealous creator of things as they are. Throughout the ages when man has begun to ignore her devices for his comfort or when he has invented devices of his own as improvements on hers, she immediately has withdrawn her efforts and left him to get on with his own handiwork.

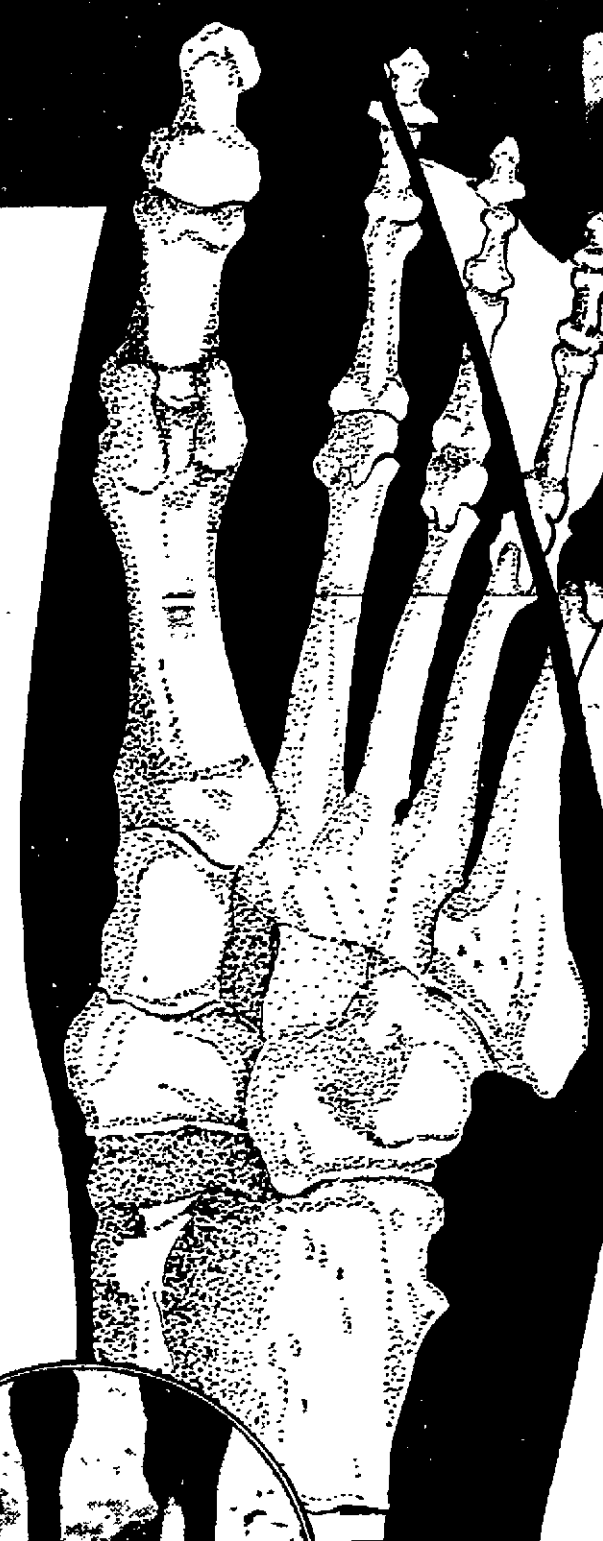

Thus, did she allow the prehensile strength to go out of his fingers and the length out of his arms when he decided to walk upright and along the earth instead of swinging himself from tree to tree.

And so, also, is Dame Nature, the hard-working economist, saving wasteage by reducing the size of the American foot, little by little, till now it is the very smallest foot to be found anywhere in the world. And the larger the American city, the smaller the foot found in it.

Here at a table the chiropractors made out showing the average size of shoes worn by men and women in some of our cities wear and the styles they prefer:

New York—Women, 4½, high heels; men, 6.
Chicago—Women, 4½; men, 7; heavy tan oxford, short vamp and wide toes for both.
San Francisco—Women, 4½, brown lace boots, high heels; men, 7½.
St. Paul—Women, 6, brown boots, military heels; men, 8.
Detroit—Women, 5, high top, military heels; men, 7½.
Milwaukee—Women, 5½; men, 8½.
Los Angeles—Women, 5, brown pumps; men, 8.
Washington—Women, 5, high heels; men, 8.
Pittsburgh—Women, 5, high heels; men, 8.
Philadelphia—Women, 6, high heels, tan shoes; men, 9.
St. Louis—Women, 5½, comfortable size, low heels; men, 9.

Our feet are growing smaller because we're lazy, according to word sent out from the convention. We don't like to take the trouble to walk. We've got accustomed to hopping taxis, still that curves under and gives neither the foot nor body support, and by doubling the bones so heel and toes almost touch creates an abnormal arch.

"Heels Should Never Be Over an Inch in Height," Said Dr. R. H. Gross, and Demonstrated It to Dr. Louise Elliott.

Dr. E. K. Burnett, secretary of the chiropractors, thus explained the antagonism of that body toward the spiffy foot-gear one meets upon the Fifth avenues and the Broadways of the country. Dr. Catherine Tepper of Wichita, Kansas, went so far as to declare that pointed-toe and high-heeled shoes worn by expectant mothers result in crippled children. She predicted that various States eventually will make the low-heel and common-sense last a matter for legislation.

Because of the stilt heel which throws the entire weight of the body upon the ball of the foot, broadening and otherwise distorting that bone, women in a generation or so won't know whether they are afoot or a horseback. In other words, Dr. Ramsburg warned, feminine feet appear to be turning into hoofs. He went on: "Just as evolution has brought down our present day feet to us from the antediluvian lizard, so are high heels to-day assisting evolution to change the shape of Madame's foot. Already, because of them, she is developing a callous on the ball of the foot, which is, in effect, a heel itself. This sort of thing, if kept up many more generations, is going to cause her to have a hoof instead of a foot."

In fairness, however, it must be admitted that not every member of the chiropractor clan agrees with this theory. Mr. Frederick H. Sidney stated that the comfortable foot is the well and sanely shod foot, and by its failure to register pain or other disagreeableness it will be known. "There is no type of shoe," Mr. Sidney said, "that may be prescribed for every foot. The 'corrective' shoe of course is a wonderful thing, but too high-priced to come within the reach of the public generally."

"The most sensible footwear the country has seen for a great while is the flat-heeled sandal, with 'cut-outs' over the toes."

"Of course, the ideal condition for all feet would be to wear no shoes at all. Primitive people went barefoot and they never had foot trouble. But women must be warned against changing too quickly from high heels to low. Wearing of very high heels shortens the muscles of the calf of the leg and letting down the feet immediately is likely to cause grave injury to the limbs. Heels should be lowered a quarter of an inch at a time while an expert works on the leg muscles to strengthen and develop them."

As a final bit of information, Dr. F. E. Hayden, past president of the chiropractors, announced that there would be more happy marriages if young men would demand photographs of their future wives' feet.

No beauty of face nor apparent charm of disposition is one half so important an indication of what may be expected of a girl made wife as the lines and character of her feet, declared Dr. Hayden, who stated further:

"The high-heeled, pointed-toe shoe is worn by shallow-minded women such as jazz dancers and women who care too much for amusements. The high arch denotes the advanced woman, while the low arch is likely to denote a cruel and exacting disposition."

"The ancient Greeks were a high-arched race of athletes, poets and philosophers. The Romans were a cruel, martial race whose people stood on their heels and were low arched. The Huns, who, under Atilla, invaded and devastated Europe, and the Tartars and Mongols who conquered China under the leadership of Genghis Khan also were low-arched nations who walked on their heels."

"We should walk heel and toe, bound along on the balls of our feet with the toes pointed straight ahead. The American Indians are a high-arched race, and often have been called perfect physical specimens of physical strength and manhood."

Dr. Hayden examined 500 co-eds at the University of Kansas, finding out of the number only two who possessed perfect feet—one a Chinese girl. At New Hampshire University, where he examined 250 girls, he failed to find one perfect foot!

The Natural Bone Structure of a Woman's Foot When Walking. Note How Different Its Outline from That of the Footpicking Shoe. Scientists Say That Modern Shoes Are Changing the Human Foot so That It May Become Similar to Horse's Hoof, at Left.

If we have no motors of our own, or the subway or surface car—anything to save the exertion of placing one foot before the other in such manner as eventually to bring us to our destinations.

The result is that our feet are growing too small in proportion to our bodies and too weak to support our weight. Their muscles are growing flabby from disuse—and this is the first sign of decay.

It's the women's feet, however, that should give the nation the most concern—all because femininity insists upon being "stylish" instead of comfortable.

"The stylish shoe usually is a bad shoe. It's because Americans adopt French styles, and the French people run to extremes. It was from Paris that we borrowed the French heel—the tall, narrow

NEW YORK, April 25. —William T. Tilden's refusal to appear at the Davis Cup committee meeting to be held here Friday, presumably for the purpose of discussing his resignation as a member of the Davis Cup and Olympic teams further complicates a situation which already promised to deprive America of the services of her champion in the two big tennis events.

Although Tilden explained his declination by a "previous engagement" the committee may not be altogether pleased with his refusal to appear and talk things over. Tilden's letter of declination stated the position he set forth in his letter of resignation—that he will not play until his amateur status is "definitely settled."

No one doubts the good faith of the United States Lawn Tennis Association in its efforts to uphold the standards of amateurism but there many who sympathize with Tilden and believe him to be a player-writer, to be anything but the "evil influence" in the sport that his activity as a professional writer on tennis was declared by one tennis association official to be a shame.

Until the recent developments came up, it was widely believed that the committee would make an exception of its player-writer rule in Tilden's case. But now—especially in view of Tilden's refusal to attend the committee meeting—that hope seems to have gone glimmering.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Milton Stock, veteran third sacker of the St. Louis Nationals, who has been a holdout this season, today was traded to Brooklyn for Mike Gonzales, catcher and $7,500 in cash. Both players are to report immediately to their respective clubs.

GASOLINE DANGEROUS

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Gasoline today has become a greater hazard because it is less feared, says a bulletin of the American Automobile Association. The losses by fire are still excessive and beyond the conception of the average motorist, according to officials of the leading insurance companies that write automobile fire coverage.

Only one couple in every 1,000 married people live to celebrate their golden wedding.

Everyman's Investments

By GEORGE T. HUGHES

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee) Ninth Article Oil Securities

While the oil industry is divided into four great branches, production, transportation, refining and marketing, which may be operated separately or in combination, it is the producing end that lures the public and causes enormous losses to speculators and so-called investors. This article, therefore, considers only the popular oil security, stock in oil well companies. Nor do these remarks refer to the great companies whose holdings and resources are so diversified, extensive and widespread geographically that they have virtually all possible stability. The public puts little of its oil money into these stable companies; it prefers the long chance offered by the inefficient operator or the hopeless less chance offered by the dishonest promoter.

Of every five wells located by honest, capable oil geologists only one produces oil. Of every 20 wells located by dishonest incompetents and by dishonest promoters, only one produces oil. These figures are from a nationally-known oil geologist. They are dependable.

Suppose the company owns land or leases in field that is known to contain oil. Boundaries of oil deposits are not easily defined and a lease, apparently favorably located, may mislead entirely. This is so well known that experienced companies frequently "checker-board" their leases; that is, the company does not lease one nor, more tract all together, but leases smaller, scattered tracts at intervals, somewhat as the black square appears on a checker board.

But suppose the producing company is honestly promoted, drills its wells—probably 2,000 to 3,000 feet or deeper and at a cost of $8 to $10 a foot—and strikes oil. Gushers are not always huge money makers, for it is expensive to harness them, and it is not always practicable to obtain immediate storage or transportation. It is expensive to build pipe lines and refineries.

But grant the producing company has successfully struck oil and obtained an adequate outlet at a fair price for its production. Say, further, that the field has settled down from the first burst of heavy production to a steady flow. Still there are uncertainties. Every company in the field is drawing oil from the same supply. Prices of crude oil or other conditions may make it desirable for a company to stop production. But if other companies keep on producing, the company that suspends will find its share of the oil wholly or partly taken by the other producers when it resumes operations. Oil deposits are not blocked out as are coal and mineral deposits, which the land owner or lease holder may go and get as suits his convenience. The oil producer must get his share while it is there to get, otherwise the other producers who are drawing from the same pool will take it all.

The life of a producing pool is uncertain. When the pool is exhausted there is nothing left for the stockholders to sell to reimburse them for their "investment." Oil and mining are totally different from industrial and utility investments. With every barrel of oil or ton of coal or other conditions the capital of the enterprise is depleted just to that extent. There is just that much less oil or ore to recover and sell. If there is not enough oil or ore and conditions are not right so that every barrel and every ton will pay back, in addition to a profit, a proportionate share of the money put into the well or mine, then the enterprise is a failure.

(Mr. Hughes' tenth article will appear in The Bee next Monday.)

SAXONY'S SAXOPHONE

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Saxony has given out an S. O. S. "Send Our Saxophones." Saxony musicians are anxious master the instrument.

MERGED
A big merger of amusement interests makes Marcus Loew the head of 350 theaters, mostly movie houses, in all parts of the United States.

One of the chain systems has over 750 stores.

We live in an age of mergers. The period of consolidation started about 25 years ago. How long until there will be a virtual monopoly, by consolidation, in every important line of business? Then, finally, a consolidation of consolidations. That's the trend.

COSTLY
A modern debutante, traveling in the highest eastern society, cannot dress "properly" on less than $35,000 a year. This is the estimate in the exclusive circles of New York.

Why waste time foaming at the mouth because a young woman with foolishly futile ambitions "wastes" so much on clothes? The money is not wasted, by any means. Most of it goes for labor and profits to garment makers. So it travels, back into circulation among the plain people. Far better than remaining frozen in bank accounts and securities. As long as they have the money, prodigal spending by the rich should please people on the "outside looking in."

SHAKES
President Coolidge was wise in abolishing the custom of shaking hands with visitors to the White House.

Pumping several thousand arms at a session is a foolish waste of energy and time by an official whose minutes and strength are extremely valuable to himself and the public. Shaking hands is foolish and dangerous, for it spreads disease germs. The League

For the Game's Sake

By LAWRENCE PERRY

(Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)
NEW YORK, April 25.—Frank Zuna, according to an outlying which has an official appearance, is looked upon as having cooked himself as an Olympic finalist string marathon prospect because he ran three full distance marathons within three weeks.

If this is true, it would not be surprising. Three, twenty six mile runs in as many weeks is taxing the human system pretty rigidly. Flesh and blood can stand only so much.

Yet, Zuna's plight—if such indeed, is his plight, is one Eastern Olympic candidates before this tryout system is completed and candidates selection. This, because a majority of the star performers now relied upon to win points at Paris reside in the east and will thus meet one another in the eastern tryouts.

Rigorous competition is bound to ensue and when the leading westerners come or here from their sectional tryouts, they are likely to find a bunch of Eastern performers who are fagged and not up to their best because of the dog-eat-dog contests in this section.

As a consequence, it is not so certain that those who are really best

Against Hand Shaking is on the right track.

DUPED
More than two billion dollars' worth of German marks were bought by people outside Germany in the last five years. This is one fact dug up by the Dawes committee.

Putting it another way, Germany has made two billion dollars profit unloading tons of paper money on the world and then depreciating it to worthlessness.

She will pay the penalty later when she tries to market financial securities of real value.

EVADING
Germany during 1923 paid to the armies of occupation over a million GOLD marks. She also delivered 298 million gold marks worth of commodities to the allied governments. On 1923 account she paid no cash reparations.

In other words, the allies were able to squeeze Germany over a million dollars last year, or about $1.25 for every German man, woman and child.

As to how much France made from industries in German land her armies occupied, no statistics are available.

GOLF
A glutton for statistics figures out that a golf fan expends 1600 calories of energy in a game. This includes swings with the clubs and walking from hole to hole, but no allowances for energy vented in outbursts of rage.

The average golfer in one game uses up a third of the energy his body generates in a day. It is obvious why golf is a dangerous sport for devotees who overdo it, especially the old. More people die playing golf than any other game.

qualified to perform great feats on track and field will be in condition to show their wares. In other words, a bunch of olympic selections who are not up to the best we could produce under ordinary conditions.

This, of course, is more or less a theoretical danger; none the less it is a situation that might be well worth watching.

Speaking of track stars they have a young freshman named Phillips out at Butler in Indiana who promises to do mighty things.

Recently he defeated Jole Ray at Louisville in the Kentucky-Indiana
